

ali toki: international auxilliary language based on toki pona

Rules:

Vowels: E/A I O/U

Consonants: M N P T K S F W L J

The vowels E/A and O/U are treated as interchangeable, different letters may be used to suggest a pronunciation and enhance recognizability but will never be vital to differentiating words.

Similarly the pronunciation of all letters is not rigid, you may (and arguably should) pronounce words as is most comfortable, in the end all that matters is that your target audience understands you.
